

Seed Aid for Seed Security

ADVICE FOR PRACTITIONERS

USAID
FROM THE AMERICAN PEOPLE

Seed aid needs to be improved. Case studies show seed-based agricultural recovery to be more complex than is commonly assumed. These Briefs offer advice on how to sustain and strengthen seed systems during disaster response and recovery periods. Up-to-date technical information addresses such issues as introducing new varieties, protecting agrobiodiversity, and exploiting market opportunities during periods of acute and chronic stress. Specific aid-response tools are also offered, including methods for assessing seed system security, guidelines for learning-focused evaluations and checklists to ensure quality in seed aid proposal development

Citation: Louise Sperling and Tom Remington with Jon M. Haugen, 2006. Seed Aid for Seed Security: Advice for Practitioners, Practice Briefs 1-10. Rome, Italy: International Center for Tropical Agriculture and Catholic Relief Services.

COMPLETE LIST OF PRACTICE BRIEFS

- | | | | |
|----------|---|-----------|---|
| 1 | Who we are and what we do | 6 | Understanding Seed Systems Used by Small Farmers in Africa: Focus on Markets |
| 2 | Overview of Seed System Under Stress Project: Case Studies | 7 | Assessing Seed System Security |
| 3 | Understanding Seed Security | 8 | Seed Relief Responses: an Overview |
| 4 | Agrobiodiversity and Seed Relief | 9 | The Power of Evaluation |
| 5 | Using Seed Aid to give Farmers Access to Seed of New Varieties | 10 | Developing a Seed-Aid Proposal A Rapid Review Checklist for Practitioners |

For more information, please contact

International Center for Tropical
Agriculture (CIAT) Africa Program
P.O. Box 6247
Kampala, Uganda
Phone + 256 (41) 567 670
Fax: + 256 (41) 567 635
E-mail: l.sperling@cgiar.org
<http://www.ciat.cgiar.org/africa/seeds.htm>

Catholic Relief Services
P.O. Box 49675-00100
Nairobi, Kenya
Phone +254 375 0787
Fa x: +254 374 1356
E-mail: tremington@crsearo.org
<http://www.catholicrelief.org>

CARE Norge
Universitetsgaten 12
0164 Oslo, Norway
Phone: +47 (22) 99 26 00
Fax: +47 (22) 99 2601
E-mail: care.norge@crae.no
<http://www.care.no>